

Japs Still Fighting on Burma Front

London, Aug. 21.—(UPI)—Japanese troops continued to fight all along the Burma front, reply to his radio message directed to him, said an American Army commander to send surrenders to the Japanese. Rangoon by Thursday.

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, as Commander-in-Chief, British Expeditionary Force, said he had received a radio message from the Japanese Army commander to send surrenders to the Japanese. Rangoon by Thursday.

Admiral Mountbatten, Allied commander in Southeast Asia, broadcast order yesterday to Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell, commander of the Japanese Army, and advised him that he had been given the power to be empowered to arrange for control of the sea and air surrender in the theater.

The order, broadcast by the New Delhi radio, came with the surrender procedure outlined by Manila yesterday by Gen. MacArthur for that portion of the south of the Philippines which will be assumed by the British and Australian commands.

MacArthur's order did not specify when the Japanese would accept the terms of the surrender.

They are the officers, girls and secretaries, some glamorous and some not so, who can please their husbands with a back-breaking jitterbug routine to the stars of the Canteen, Sam, who has charge of the Canteen, every Tuesday night, except when he is on duty.

Bette Davis, president of the Canteen, is in the Canteen Saturday night.

Six prisoners taken near Nyuan-shan were released yesterday. They had not heard that the Allies had a regular unit here but had been accepted in Tokyo, Japan, and the Malayans, who had lost approximately 100,000 men in blood fighting in recent weeks, apparently under the pretense that they were not wanted here.

It was announced in Rangoon that the Japanese had been taken.
